ECONOMIC OUTLOOK

November proved to be considerably trickier for equity investors, compared to the previous month. Solvency worries about China's largest property developer China Evergrande emerged, sparking concerns of another Lehman-style global financial crisis just as Federal Reserve officials signaled a readiness to begin tapering, possibly before the end of the year. Sentiment further worsened by spiking energy prices which caused global power shortages, especially in China, where a significant manufacturing shutdown could further impact global supply chain disruptions, pushing up inflation and encouraging earlier-than-expected tightening of monetary policy.

Against this backdrop, emerging markets continued to lag. The direct exposure to slower Chinese economic growth and regulatory impact continued to plague emerging markets. Year-to-date the KLCI was down -3.22%, while the FTSE Straits Times, JCI, SET, and PSE Composite were up 10.35%, 11.50%, 11.38, and 2.60%, respectively and in local currency terms.

In this type of investing environment, we remain convinced that our bottom-up investing approach—focused on finding companies with solid fundamentals, sound growth prospects, and reasonable valuations—should continue to deliver resilient investment performance compared with macro-based or other investment styles. As sustainability and Islamic-focused investors, we also are well positioned to capitalize on growing ESG awareness across global investors.
